1. (WO 2007/103226) METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR RESTRICTING DVD CONTENT	13.09.2007	H04N 7/173	PCT/US2007/005458	TIVO INC.

Techniques described herein enable parents to establish a child-protective 'kids zone' on a DVR. According to one technique, a DVR receives, from a parent, identities of DVD content items that the parent does not want children to view. The DVR maps the identities to a kids zone. During times that the DVR is set to operate in the kids zone operational mode, the DVR prevents itself from presenting any content from DVDs that are associated with the identities. At other times, during which the DVR is not set to operate in the kids zone operational mode, the DVR may allow itself to present DVD content that are associated with the identities.

Techniques described herein enable parents to establish a child-protective 'kids zone' on a DVR. According to one technique, a DVR receives, from a parent, identities of content items that the parent does not want children to view. The DVR maps the identities to a kids zone. During times that the DVR is set to operate in the kids zone operational mode, the DVR prevents itself from presenting any content items that are associated with the identities. However, during these times, the DVR still may obtain and store these content items. At other times, during which the DVR is not set to operate in the kids zone operational mode, the DVR may allow itself to present the content items that are associated with the identities, including content item...

Systems and methods for creating and using composite images are provided. An online design customization tool receives user-supplied text and automatically combines the text with a user-selected image to create horizontal and vertical composite images. The aspect ratios of the composite images are compared to the aspect ratio of an image container in an electronic product design template to determine which composite image version is appropriate. An interactive knowledge card system. The interactive knowledge card system having a card with user identification, several card stations, a server, and a database. Each card station has a station identifier and a user identification reader to read the user identification on the card. The server is in communication with the card stations and receives the read user identification and the station identifier from the user identification reader. The server associates the read user identification with the received station identifier. The database is in communication with the server. The database stores exhibit information associated with each station identifier and stores the read user identification and associated station identifier. The server...

7. (WO 2007/067441) MOVABLE HAND/WRIST SUPPORT FOR USE WITH A COMPUTER MOUSE   14.06.2007   B68G 5/00   PCT/US2006/046093   FONG, Stephen

A movable hand/wrist support for use with a computer mouse is comprised of a flat and constant thickness sheet of material with an aperture there through. Aperture can be configured to be used with a mouse of any size or shape. Aperture may be configured to entirely surround a mouse so that it rests loosely within the aperture or it may be sized merely to allow the optical communication device of a mouse affixed to a top surface of movable support to communicate with an underlying surface. An secondary layer on which a mouse can rest loosely or be affixed can be affixed to a bottom surface of the sheet of material. Movable support may also include a forearm protector. Various layers may be affixed onto the sheet of material to provide addit...

9. (WO 2007/048069) ACTION WOBBLE SPRING MOUNTING ASSEMBLY AND METHOD OF MANUFACTURE   26.04.2007   B42D 1/00   PCT/US2006/041561   ACTION WOBBLE INC.

A mounting assembly for an object is provided, including a first mounting element, a second mounting element, and a resilient spring located therebetween. An object can be secured to either one of the first mounting element and the second mounting elements. In addition or alternatively, a method of manufacturing the mounting assembly is also provided. The method includes the steps of molding a resilient spring directly to the first mounting element, attaching the second mounting element to the spring, and attaching an object to either of the first and second mounting elements. In addition or alternatively, another method of manufacturing is provided for manufacturing a plurality of mounting assemblies. In addition or alternatively, the firs...

A product creator system includes a business application and a distribution utility. The business application enables a user to specify and/or edit (via a user client) a document. The business application generates a packet that is transmitted to the distribution utility. The packet describes the document, such as a document of a particular type (where the document is based on variable content and/or variable layout), and a distribution method for the document. Distribution methods include print, ship, mail, fax, email, and save. The distribution utility generates and distributes the document (via an output device) based on the packet. The business application, which can be used with a variety of distribution utilities, includes a web front...

17. (WO 2006/116465) INSTANT-WIN CONTEST 02.11.2006　A63F 13/00　PCT/US2006/015745　MOBLISS, INC.
WITH PHYSICAL ENTRY MODE

A physical entry mode is enabled for instant-win contests. In a described embodiment, a contest offers primary electronic entry modes that provide real-time communications for entry submission and award notification. An alternative physical entry mode does not provide real-time communications capabilities. In a described implementation, an historical sampling of received physical entries is taken in order to calculate an expected frequency of physical entry arrival. A physical entry prize-checking interval is determined responsive to the expected frequency of physical entry arrival.

During the instant-win contest, received physical contest entries are selected for prize availability consideration at a given interval. The given interval is r...

    RESPONDING TO FULFILLMENT ORDERS   INC.

A system, method, and software (1600) are for moving inventory items (1610) to an unloading station (1640) in response to a fulfillment order. An input device (1620) is used to enter identification information about the inventory items. At a loading station (1615), the inventory items are received and loaded into holders (1605). The holders are then moved to storage area (1630). A controller (1625) is configured for creating and storing a first association between the entered identification information and each of the holders in which each of the inventory items is placed. A selector and transporter (1635) are responsive to the fulfillment order and the first association, and are configured to select a holder which holds the inventory items...

19. (WO 2006/110465) MAIL SORTER FOR   19.10.2006   B07C 5/00   PCT/US2006/012861   PITNEY BOWES
    SIMULTANEOUS SORTING USING   INC.
    MULTIPLE ALGORITHMS

A mail sorter, method, and software product are used for sorting inbound mail pieces and outbound mail pieces. The mail sorter includes sorter modules cooperatively engaged with each other, so as to receive mail pieces that are a mixture of both inbound mail pieces and outbound mail pieces, and so as to sort both the inbound mail pieces and the outbound mail pieces. The mail sorter also includes an unsorted mail piece path that is utilized by both the inbound mail pieces and the outbound mail pieces. The outbound mail pieces are mail pieces destined for sorting at a remote postal facility prior to delivery to destination addresses, whereas the inbound mail pieces are mail pieces that are not destined for sorting at a remote postal facility ...

20. (WO 2006/108060) PROCESS AND METHOD   12.10.2006   G03B 21/60   PCT/US2006/012713   APPARITION
    OF MANUFACTURE FOR AFFIXING   MEDIA, LLC
    LENTICULAR ARTWORK TO A CLOTH
    SURFACE

The present invention covers apparel items and softgoods having a lenticular image piece and methods for attaching the piece to such items. A lenticular piece is attached to cloth material by a process of RF welding. The piece is produced from a polymer that is rigid yet able to be RF welded. The piece is then welded to the item by a RF welding die having at least one raised welding edge. Another embodiment includes placing flexible polymer films between the item and the piece and on top of the piece. In one embodiment, the welding die includes an inner welding edge and an outer welding edge and the piece is die-cut so that the diameter of the piece is greater than that of the inner edge but less than that of the outer edge.

    FOR ENRICHING MEMORIES AND ENHANCING EMOTIONS AROUND
    SPECIFIC PERSONAL EVENTS IN THE
    FORM OF IMAGES, ILLUSTRATIONS,
    AUDIO, VIDEO AND/OR DATA

A system and method for enriching memories and enhancing emotions about a specific personal event is disclosed. The system allows an easy to use enrichment of memories in terms of emotions and feelings around personal events such as vacations, promotions, sports, celebrations, etc. in form of still images, illustrations, templates, audio, video, and/or data. The invention is a rum-key system that combines broadly available hardware, industrial design, software, proprietary content, user-friendly user interface, distribution, and services tailored towards emotional personal events.

    METHOD OF PRODUCING THE SAME

The invention relates to a method for producing a visually identifiable diffractive pattern on a substrate by subjecting the substrate to pressure by bringing it into contact with a surface of an embossing plate. An imprinted paper or paperboard sheet, which is varnished at the contacting area of the embossing plate and the substrate is used as a substrate for the embossing. The invention relates also to a product manufactured using the described method. The method is applicable, for example, for common packaging materials, which contain a paperboard, imprinting and a varnish layer for producing a visually attractive and unique marking.

    COMMUNICATING MULTIMEDIA   COMPANY
    MESSAGES AMONG REMOTE TERMINALS

USING A PROGRAMMING AGENT

The invention is in the technological field of imaging. The invention relates more specifically to a colximunication method between at least two terminals (10A, 10B), and based on the sending from a first terminal (10A) to at least one second terminal (I0B) of a multimedia message comprising a programming agent (36), consisting in automatically starting, using the programming agent, the establishment of a phone link between the first terminal (10A) and the at least one second terminal (10B). The programming agent also starts automatically, on the second terminal (10B), the formation of a multimedia message intended to be sent automatically to the first terminal (10A). The invention is preferably implemented in networks that require the use ...

    SYSTEM AND METHOD

One embodiment of a method may provide, through a convergence system, a browser having a first start page and a second start page. The method may present, through the convergence system, the first start page, in response to a viewer selection of (i) a first television channel and (ii) the browser. The method may present, through the convergence system, the second start page, in response to a viewer selection of (i) a second television channel and (ii) the browser.
